

Nunavut Teachers' Association

Office of the President

March 09, 2010

Hi Colleagues:

The Qikatani Teachers Conference has just finished. The Steering Committee did a fantastic job of organizing the conference. The feedback and comments from members who attended have been very positive. Shannon Hessian, Pat McDermott and Debbie Robinson-Duffy from the NTA office also put a tremendous amount of time and effort into making this conference a success.

In the Kivalliq and Kitikmeot Regions teachers have been doing school based or individual PI. The varieties of learning experiences taking place are tremendous. The opportunities NTA members have for PI is the envy of other teacher organizations in Canada. We hear this almost every time we are involved in meetings with other teacher organizations.

Currently I'm working on getting a discount rate for one hotel in each of the cities that are identified as a point of departure. When I am finished the hotels and rates will be posted on our website. Keep an eye on the website for further news regarding discount hotel rates.

If you are travelling through Iqaluit make sure to drop into the office for coffee and a chat. We would love to have your company.

Regards,

Robin Langill
President
